Cowley Manor

Cowley Manor is a historic Manor House with a difference, The grounds and exterior retain much of the stunning traditional features you would expect whilst the interior and new Spa have a quirky modern edge.

All of the 30 bedrooms are individually designed with handmade furniture and fabrics specially deigned by outstanding young British designers. All rooms are light and spacious. Half the rooms are in the main house, the other half are in the renovated stable block

Cowley Manor is home to its own Boutique shop as well as the multi-award winning C Side Spa, sunk into the landscape where you can unwind and recharge with a treatment, a swim in the outdoor or indoor pools or maybe a stop-off in the sauna or steam rooms

Stonehouse Court Hotel

The Stonehouse Court Hotel is a stunning 17th century Manor House set within 6 acres of private grounds and boasts panoramic views over the Stroud Valley and Canal. Stonehouse Court was acquired by the current owners in 2004, who set about lovingly transforming it into the charming country house hotel it is today. The estates past has been colorful, with it being seized by more than one king and passed onto other lords or gentry. However today all you will feel is the tranquility as you relax on the terrace or take a walk around the grounds.

In the main Manor House you'll find the award winning restaurant, terrace, bar, conference suites, gymnasium and some guest rooms. The Garden Wing comprises further guest rooms and the Caroline Suite which offers extensive banqueting and conferencing facilities. The acclaimed Henry's Restaurant has been awarded 2 AA Red Rosettes for Fine Food, and specializes in combining Modern European with Eastern influences.

Miskin Manor

Miskin Manor is an 11th century manor house nestled within 22 acres of beautiful parkland near Cardiff. The hotel is superbly located for the Ryder Cup, being only 1 mile from the motorway, with an approximate journey time of 35 minutes. The Manor has a unique and varied history from entertaining Royalty to being used as a hospital during the World Wars. It was lovingly converted into a country house hotel in 1986 and has been awarded 4 stars by the AA.

The restoration has been handled with care and has respected the manor's history and charm. All the public areas and reception rooms are spacious and many boast wood panelling, fireplaces and ornate ceilings.

The restaurant serves sumptuous Welsh cuisine and has been awarded 2 AA Red Rosettes for Fine Food. There are bedrooms situated within in the main house or the former stable block.

Within the extensive grounds there is a Health Club offering an indoor heated pool, sauna, steam and spa pool for guests to relax in or a fully equipped gymnasium for the more active

Bowood Country House Hotel

The Bowood Hotel is considered one of the finest destination resorts in the South West of England. The estate has been in the Lansdowne family for over 250 years, with this May seeing the opening of their brand new luxury hotel.

The hotel is nestled within the 2000 acres of Parkland that make up The Bowood Estate. The estate not only comprising of this luxury hotel but also boasts an 18 hole championship golf course, Luxury Spa, and the Historic Bowood House & Gardens which are open to the public for viewing. The surrounding areas are also rich in history and culture, not that you need to travel any further with all that is on offer at the estate.

The hotel offers 43 bedrooms all of which are fully equipped with modern amenities and have been decorated to a very high standard by the Marchioness of Lansdowne, who is very proud of her mix of traditional English Charm with a touch of modern chic.

There is a choice for drinks and dining, with as much as possible of the fresh produce coming from Lord & Lady Lansdowne's private garden. You can enjoy panoramic views from many rooms in the hotel including the spa and infinity swimming pool. There are few pool s where you can relax in luxury and watch the world go by, (well maybe some golfers or a grazing deer!)

More About The Bowood Estate

Home of The Marquis and Marchioness of Lansdowne

Bowood has been the Lansdowne family home since 1754. After the Second World War, the Estate's future hung in the balance. The "Big House" was derelict and full of dry rot. Most of the Estate cottages were unmodernised. The 8th Marquis took the courageous decision to demolish the "Big House" leaving what visitors see today - a beautifully proportioned Georgian house, in the centre of "the most beautiful park in England". In 1975 his son, the present Marquis, opened the house and grounds to the public. Three years later, he restored the derelict stables and grooms' quarters to create a sculpture gallery, exhibition rooms, restaurant and shop. Over the past thirty years, a policy of diversification has been assiduously pursued to reflect the changing social and financial landscape. Assets have been harnessed and developed to support and protect the house and oasis which forms Capability Brown's parkland, and showcase some of his creations such as the superb lake and waterfall. All who work here take great pride in developing and protecting such an outstanding enterprise

Bowood Golf Course

Driving through the Golden Gates of Bowood's grand entrance, you enter a golfing haven. Set within 'Capability' Brown's 2000-acre Great Park and the estate of Bowood House and Gardens, lies the championship golf course carefully designed by Dave Thomas, architect of the Belfry. Which has of course hosted the Ryder Cup on a number of occasions. The course is the top championship course of the region and has hosted the European Challenge Tour Championships and many other top events. The course measures 7,317 yards from the championship tees and provides a great day out for both scratch and occasional golfers. The former estate farmhouse, dating from the 18th century, has been lovingly converted into a superb Clubhouse

Working with the natural beauty of majestic rolling parkland, with a wealth of mature trees and lakes, Thomas' brief was to create a course to be enjoyed by all who wished to play. With a range of tees on every hole, the higher handicapped golfer is not overwhelmed by too difficult a course, yet from the back tees it is still a challenge for tour professionals.
